

ROGER A. CLEMENS

Dr. Roger A. Clemens is Associate Director of the Regulatory Science program within the USC School of Pharmacy, and is Special Projects Advisor for ETHorn, a distributor of food ingredients. He was the Director of Analytical Research at USC for 5 years, and the Scientific Advisor for Nestlé USA for more than 21 years. He has published more than 50 original manuscripts in nutrition and food science, participated in more than 200 invited domestic and international lectures, and served as an expert panel member for the food industry, scientific organizations, trade associations and regulatory agencies in the United States and Canada.

Dr. Clemens is a professional member of and Fellow in the Institute of Food Technologists. Dr. Clemens received many awards for his leadership in IFT, the American Dietetics Association, and in local universities. He is an active member in the American Nutrition Society, a fellow in the American College of Nutrition and a fellow in the Marilyn Magaram Center for Food Science, Nutrition and Dietetics.

Dr. Clemens served on the IFT expert panel on functional foods, established and contributes to a monthly Food, Medicine and Health column published in Food Technology, and currently serves on the IFT Board of Directors. As a Food Science Communicator, Dr. Clemens has been cited and interviewed by more than 500 domestic and international health journalists, and has appeared on numerous televised discussions on contemporary health, nutrition and food safety issues.

Dr. Clemens is an elected member of three USP expert committees: Non-botanical Dietary Supplements; Information Expert Committee [Gastroenterology], and Food Ingredients Committee. He is an appointed member of the Product Quality Working Group for the National Center for Contemporary and Alternative Medicine in Australia.

Dr. Clemens received an AB in Bacteriology, a MPH in Nutrition, and a DrPH. in Public Health Nutrition and Biological Chemistry from the University of California, Los Angeles.